February at Princeton Public Library just got a whole lot more powerful with The Art of the Witness Stones Project—a moving fusion of history and creativity from the Stoutsburg Sourland African American Museum. Timberlane Middle School's eighth-graders are taking visitors on a visual journey, sharing the untold stories of Friday Truehart, Frost Blackwell, and Nance—three individuals once enslaved in Central New Jersey—through art that speaks louder than words.

Clinton's lighting up the winter sky once again with the 16th annual Yuletide Bonfire + Fireworks—a cozy, crackling, sugar-filled evening of hayrides, hot chocolate, and marshmallow roasting, all topped off with a dazzling fireworks show! Entry is free, but kind-hearted revelers are encouraged to bring a canned good for the Open Cupboard Food Pantry—because nothing warms the soul like giving back (except maybe that bonfire).

Rekha Rao is set to share her expertise at three important forums this month, helping families navigate critical legal topics with clarity and confidence. On February 15th, from 11:15 AM to 12:00 PM, she addresses a local church group, on issues regarding Estate Planning and Elder Law.

On February 19 at 7 PM EST, she will speak at an SKN Foundation workshop aimed at demystifying the guardianship process for individuals with special needs, empowering families to plan for the future.
